104 Days Around the South Pacific

Galapagos Islands—Still Evolving

Dear Friend—

We had a fun but chaotic time during the five days we spent in the Galapagos Islands, 900km off the coast of Ecuador. We saw Darwin finches, huge tortoises, and Chatham mocking birds, found only on a single island. As the first large ship to visit the Galapagos, it was a real circus, with officials changing the rules, boats breaking down, and having half the island visiting us onboard. Here's a quick peak of what we saw; check out our Galapagos pages for the details.

Marine Iguanas

Posturing tortoises

Friendly sea lions... everywhere

We'll be sending these e-mail postcards periodically. We'll try to keep the postcards short – for full details, you can visit our trip website, at <http://blessley.net/Travel/104tour> If you'd prefer not to receive the postcards, simply email wt-unsubscribe@blessley.net. If you've received this postcard second-hand and would like to sign up, email wt-subscribe@blessley.net.
