

E-postcard from Scott & Kathy

April 15, 2006

104 Days Around the South Pacific

Summer Reruns....

Dear Friend—

After leaving stormy New Zealand, we headed back on our return trip across the Pacific—our trip is now more than half complete. We had a couple new ports, but many were places we've been to before. Vanuatu is a tiny country best known as host for a Survivor TV series. Yasawa, Fiji is a remote island with some of the most beautiful beaches in the world—Blue Lagoon was filmed here (twice). We revisited the ports of Vava'u and Rarotonga, using the time to wander the backstreets. Then it was back to our least favorite two ports of the first crossing, Bora Bora and Tahiti. This time, we got away from the towns, and found it much more agreeable. For more details, photos, etc. — click this link.

Bora Bora

Yasawa, Fiji

Tahiti Waterfall

We'll be sending these e-mail postcards periodically. We'll try to keep the postcards short – for full details, you can visit our trip website, at <http://blessley.net/Travel/104tour> If you'd prefer not to receive the postcards, simply email wt-unsubscribe@blessley.net. If you've received this postcard second-hand and would like to sign up, email wt-subscribe@blessley.net.

Scott & Kathy